

Lehigh CSCR Newsletter June 2018

Zach G. Zacharia, Ph.D.
Director, Lehigh Center for Supply
Chain Research

Welcome to our June issue of the Lehigh Center for Supply Chain Research (CSCR) newsletter. In this edition our focus is again on presentations that happened on the Spring Symposium that was just completed April 12 and April 13, here at Lehigh University. We had a very successful Spring Symposium with over 130 participants. Two of the presentations will be further highlighted in this issue.

Please check out the links below.

Daniel Steeneck, Assistant Professor at Air Force Institute of Technology discussed the “Phantom Inventory Menace”

Seth Flanders, Project Manager at Air Products discussed the Planning Journey that happens at Air Products

Registration for our Fall Forum on Disruptive Innovations in the Supply Chain that will be held November 8 and November 9 at Lehigh University is now open. There is a $100 discount for early registration so please register. Here is a link to our website.

<https://cbe.lehigh.edu/centers/lehigh-center-for-supply-chain-research/2018-fall-forum>

We are also looking for good topics that you are interested in learning more about or even good speakers who you would be interested in hearing present.

Zach G. Zacharia, Ph.D.

Associate Professor of Supply Chain Management
Director, Lehigh Center for Supply Chain Research
Lehigh University

Follow us on Facebook and LinkedIn

