

Bonnie B. Stith, ACC
President, Stith Associates

Bonnie Stith retired from the position of Director of the Center for Cyber Intelligence in the Central Intelligence Agency's (CIA) Directorate of Digital Innovation. Her career with the CIA included assignments of increasing responsibility managing and leading diverse workforces to accomplish a variety of intelligence missions and culminated in her roles as both Senior Advisor on Cyber to the Director, Central Intelligence Agency and leader of the Center for Cyber Intelligence.

Bonnie now works with leaders and organizations to create new success through developing strategic plans that align leadership and culture to organizational mission, vision and values. As an Executive Coach, she helps leaders define, understand, and accomplish the steps that achieve desired success both professionally and organizationally.

She is an experienced speaker on topics including cyber threat and response and on leadership styles and values that create top performing organizational cultures.

stithassociates.com