CHRIS ANDRASSY
Co-Founder and CEO

Astral Insights

Chris Andrassy is Co-Founder and CEO of Astral Insights, a supply chain solutions firm focused on reimagining business intelligence with AI to build smarter, faster, and more resilient supply chains. Now in its 6th year of operations, Astral has developed and implemented solutions for demand planning, procurement, manufacturing, supply chain visibility, and customer experience for mid-market and global enterprise clients across numerous industries.

In his role, Chris focuses on developing and maintaining client relationships, firm strategy, fundraising, and talent acquisition. Prior to founding Astral Insights, Chris worked in technology consulting at PwC supporting digital transformation in the construction and manufacturing sectors.

At Lehigh University, Chris was part of the Integrated Business and Engineering (IBE) honors program, studying industrial & systems engineering and analytical finance. He also sat on the executive council of the Investment Management Group, was a recruitment chair at Sigma Phi Epsilon, was a member of the Lehigh Consulting Group, and won battle of the bands as the drummer in Dirty Mike and The Boys.
